

It must be wonderful when two brothers meet unexpectedly thousands of miles from home. That happened recently when SM 3/c ROWAN HENRY met his brother, Marine Pfc. HOWARD HENRY, somewhere in the South Pacific. The following is part of a letter he wrote to his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Henry of Irvington.

"Dear Mother and Dad,
"I have great news for you today! Yes, it has happened. I saw Howard! When you stop to think of it, it almost seems a miracle. But it's happened! You should have seen us—Howard and me. We were so excited all we could do was to smile and say 'Hello.' We visited for 20 minutes. We had so much to say and it seems we said so little. The same old Howard—looks fine and still crazy about the Marine Corps.

"On that day I also saw Bill and Ed Silva, two friends from Niles with whom I went to school at Washington High.

"I will never forget that day as long as I live."

Comes another letter, this one from S 1/c ALVIN ROSE, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose of 315 I Street, Niles. He is "somewhere in the South Pacific." This is part of a letter he wrote to his mother:

"I received two Township Registers today and get them right along. If you see the paper man—I don't know his name—tell him I sure enjoy reading the paper, and it is sure swell to get a paper from home. Even the boys I'm with, who don't know Niles or the people, like to read it. Tell him 'thanks' for getting the paper to us so regularly, and tell him when I get back, maybe some day I'll be able to do something for him."

Sgt. WILFRED SIMMONS has returned to his base in Alabama after a 15-day furlough spent at the home of his wife's (Barbara Kibby) parents.

A/S ERNEST TREMBLAY is home on a ten-day leave from W.S.C., where he has been taking V-12 training.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gorman of Niles, never loath to pick up a service man on the highway, stopped at the underpass the other day when they saw a young Marine. When they got a better look, they saw that it was their own son—Pvt. ALFRED "BUD" GORMAN, home on a ten-day leave from his base at San Diego. He wasn't expected home for another month.

Two of our boys, Pfc. JOSEPH OLIVEIRA and Sgt. WILLIAM GEORGE, both formerly of Camp Attenuary, Ind., now have New York APO numbers.

Pfc. Edward Bettencourt is home on a 21-day furlough, part of which he is spending in Los Angeles. He has been in the South Pacific for 29 months.

Another local boy has gone overseas. This time it's Cpl. RAYMOND CRANE. He has a New York APO number.

JACK REES ATTENDS 3-DAY CONFERENCE AT SAN JOSE

Jack Rees, director of research and guidance in the office of the county superintendent of schools, attended a three-day session at San Jose of a conference on Direction and Improvement of Instruction and on Child Welfare.

Others who attended the conference included Mrs. Ethel Ward, co-ordinator of instruction; Harold Schoenfeld, physical education supervisor; George Stewart, attendance supervisor; Mrs. Loren Killey, director of audio-visual center; Mrs. Floy Rallsback, Mrs. Mary Harville and Miss Nellie Mead, general supervisors, and Curtis Cowling, circulation manager for the visual center.

Many prominent educators were present to lead round-table discussions.

One of the most interesting addresses made, according to Mr. Rees, was that of Daniel A. Prescott, from the School of Education at the University of Chicago, who spoke on "Understanding Children."

HUSKERS HOLD MT. VIEW TO 3-6 TIE GAME

In a keenly played, hard hitting game last Friday night at Mountain View the Washington Huskers closed with a 6-6 tie with their Mountain View rivals. Both teams were keyed to a high pitch and hit hard. Washington scored in the first quarter, Mountain View in the last two minutes of the game.

Alden Chamness and Adolph Tnos, substitutes filling in for two regulars on the injured list, turned in very creditable performances. Chamness displayed plenty of drive when he carried the ball to score Washington's lone touchdown.

Washington's record now stands at two wins and two ties, Mountain View being the first team to score in the Huskers this year.

Today the Washington outfit will clash with the Fremont Indians on the Centerville field at 2:45. Fremont has an up-and-coming club with plenty of weight. The Indians lost to Santa Clara, 12-6, last Friday, but they are showing steady improvement and should give a good account of themselves.

CARTER ACCUSES HILLMAN OF BRAZEN TACTICS

Although responsible Democratic voters of Alameda and Contra Costa are supporting him, as they have done for the last twenty years, the Sidney Hillman-P.A.C.-Earl Browder group are resorting to a campaign of grossest misrepresentation to defeat him, Congressman Albert E. Carter stated today in a message to his supporters in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

"If I am defeated in November, it will be a striking victory for the power-seeking Sidney Hillman-Earl Browder-P.A.C. combination, which is engaged in a campaign of brazen misrepresentation as to my voting record, such as I have never fitnessed in the twenty years I have represented the Sixth Congressional District," said Congressman Carter.

"In the twenty years I have represented the Sixth District I have never received demands as to how I shall vote from any group, except from this Sidney Hillman-Earl Browder-P.A.C. group. They do not ask—they demand that I vote this way or that way on pending legislation. These power-mad leaders of the P.A.C., who levy arbitrary assessments upon their members, no matter how they feel on the matter, believe they can demand, and get away with anything.

"Not satisfied with this, they have falsified the record of my voting in an attempt to deceive their own members. Despite this, I am being supported by rank and file C.I.O. and A. F. of L. members, whose leaders have attested in letters and telegrams to me that cordial support of my clean labor voting record.

"William Green and a score of A. F. of L. labor leaders and national representatives have sent me messages endorsing my candidacy, because of my exceptionally clean legislative record. But, a frenzied effort is being made by P.A.C. bigwigs to deceive the voters on my record, even to falsifying the record. To the loyal men and women, who have supported me through the years, I say 'don't you believe it—go to the Congressional Record, and that will prove their deception.

"For instance, they say I voted 'No' on the Soldiers' Vote Bill. That is not true. I voted against the President's order on salary limitation, as I believe Congress should not be robbed of its right to enact salary limitation laws. Then I voted for the limitation of salaries during war time to not to exceed $25,000. I voted for $300,000,000 for soil conservation, for rural electrification $20,000,000, and $130,000,000 for OPA enforcement.

IRVINGTON THEATRE HAS NEW EQUIPMENT

With the aid of this modern equipment Mr. Krueger, manager, hopes to give his patrons the finest entertainment available.

LOCAL ARTIST WINS DISTINCTION AT EXHIBIT

We read a catalog the other day describing the paintings of nationally famous artists which are being shown this month and next at the Oakland Art Gallery. And tucked in with the impressive list of names of cities from whence the artists came—Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston—we were startled to see the name Niles. Yes, Niles, California.

With quickened interest we read across the page to see what artist in Niles was good enough to have a picture hung with these notables.

It was Ethel Grau, who had done a water color entitled "Lauhala Mat." We were very sorry we couldn't see "Lauhala Mat." But we contacted Mrs. Grau, whose husband, Captain E. C. Grau, is with the Army medical staff in England, and found out a little more about the exhibit and about Mrs. Grau's part in it.

It seems that out of 500 water colors, pastels, drawings and prints which were submitted for this exhibit from all parts of the country, only 175 were chosen. Mrs. Grau's water color was one of the 175.

Mrs. Grau comes of a family of artists, her father, the late Manuel Valencia, having studied in Europe, to be come well known in California for his paintings in oil of the California missions. He painted every mission in California. Mrs. Grau's mother is also an artist, having taken her training at the Jackson School of Fine Arts in Sacramento. And Warren Valencia, a brother, has reached artistic distinction, too. He also is exhibiting at the Oakland gallery.

Asked why she selected a lauhala mat as the subject of her water color, Mrs. Grau explained that it was because of the romance behind it. As Don Blanding, California poet, wrote:

"Weave me a mat of lauhala
Let one strand be a song,
An old song of Hawaii."

The exhibit closes November 5.

VISIT IN TOWNSHIP

LT.-GOV. FRED HOUSER AND MRS. HOUSER

PLAN NOW FOR HOME OR WAIT 2 YEARS AFTER WAR

Fewer than half of the families intending to buy or build a new home immediately after the war will be able to carry out their plans during the first postwar year, Irving W. Clark, chairman of the Residential Committee of The Producers' Council, stated today.

"Although the recent survey conducted by the Office of Civilian Requirements indicates that 650,000 non-farm families will be in the market for a new dwelling as soon as private home building can be resumed, a forecast by the Council's Market Analysis Committee shows that only about 350,000 new dwelling units will be built during the first year after the war," Clark said.

"Although restrictions on the building of private dwellings probably will be relaxed within the next few months, the number of new homes constructed before the final end of the war will be relatively small, owing to the limited supply of many essential building products.

"Even though production of building materials and equipment can be resumed on a full scale soon after the final end of the war, the volume of new residential construction during the first 12 months after Japan is defeated will be limited because building contractors and home builders will need considerable time to reassemble their organizations and undertake extensive construction.

"Moreover, fully half of the new dwelling units constructed during the first postwar year may be apartments or other dwellings built for rent, rather than for occupancy by the owner. Thus, it is possible that only about 175,000 to 200,000 of the new units constructed will be available for the 650,000 families hoping to purchase or build a new home at the earliest opportunity.

"Many of the additional 2,500,000 non-farm families who expect to acquire a home soon after the war, according to the OCR survey, but who either are not fully educated or else did not specify how soon they would act, probably will have to wait more than two years after the war ends before obtaining their new home, inasmuch as the number of new urban dwellings constructed during the ensuing five years is not expected to average more than 970,000 a year, even with virtually full employment.

"Accordingly, only those individuals whose building plans are completed well ahead of time can count on obtaining their new home soon after the war."

IRVINGTON WOMEN HEAR RECREATION TALK

Mrs. R. A. Griffin, Mrs. L. M. Robinson and Mrs. George Scamman attended the Phoebe Hearst meeting last Thursday, October 19, at the Burbank School in Hayward.

Recreation centers for youth came up for discussion and William Dresback gave a short talk on the subject. While the group was there it visited the "Hayloft" recreation center for juveniles of Hayward.

JOHN ZIEGLER WEDS WAVE IN BERKELEY

A surprise wedding took place last Sunday when Marjorie Helen Rehmkne, WAVE, became the bride of John Walter Ziegler, U.S.N.R., at St. John's Presbyterian Church in Berkeley.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Ziegler of Stockton, his father having formerly been in charge of the Holly Sugar plant at Alvarado. He was graduated from Washington Union High School and the University of California and attended the San Francisco Dental College and the Great Lakes Naval Station after enlisting. He was affiliated with the S.A.E. fraternity at Berkeley and the XISiChi dental society at San Francisco.

The bride is a former Davis, California, girl and graduated from Sacramento Junior College before enlisting in the WAVES.

The young couple left for a honeymoon, after which the groom will depart for training in a pharmacist's school in the East.

CHILDREN NEED HOME TRAINING, SAYS SAVANT

"The Importance of the Home for Basic Training," the theme of the inspiring address of Mrs. Edward T. Walker, of Los Angeles, state congress sixth vice-president and director of home service, was enthusiastically received by a group of over ninety Parent-Teacher members of the 16th District, Monday, presided over by Mrs. J. S. Haines of Hayward, in Alameda. Mrs. Walker stated: "The schools cannot handle new problems alone; they need the help of parents and homes. Intolerances and prejudices are learned in the homes. Everybody in the entire state should realize the importance of the child, assuming responsibility for the less-fortunate children. We must clarify our thinking of what a good home is. The ideal home needs two good parents, emotionally stable, intelligent, and good sports. The home has to give more than shelter and food; it needs fun, so the occupants may learn to live together and like it. Build a strong wall of security for your children. Their education is a twenty-four hour job, working with and for others, and to spiritual faith. Know the value of how to do things cheerfully and well. Find something for the unimportant, timid new members to do. No nation is any stronger than the individuals who make up its communities, where a satisfactory life may be built for girls and boys."

Roy C. Votow, of San Francisco, field representative of the Delinquency Department of California Youth Authority, discussed teenage centers which, besides its adult advisors and sponsor groups, should include high school youths themselves in planning. Real interest is being developed in community councils embracing church and club groups, agencies and organizations. Governor Warren will meet with the state group in Sacramento.

Washington Township welcomed Lt. Gov. Fred Houser and Mrs. Houser Wednesday morning. Candidate for the U. S. Senate opposing Democrat Sheridan Downey, Houser spoke at Irvington, Centerville, and Niles.

This was an informal call and preceding his brief talks the candidate and his attractive wife mingled with local people turned out to see them.

PLANNING COMMITTEE TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Washington Township Planning Committee will hold its next meeting Wednesday, November 1. The affair will be an invitational dinner meeting at the Black and White Restaurant in Centerville. The meeting will consider principally the possibilities of an airport in the township.

The group is meeting today (Friday) at the home of Mrs. C. E. Martenstein, chairman, who will get material from Mrs. Louis Heinz, Red Cross chairman of the Past Presidents Assembly of Alameda County.

The meeting following this one will be held at the home of Mrs. Roland Bendel, secretary, on October 31. Dessert will be served at 1:30, after which the ladies will get to work.

The following women comprise the past-presidents group:

Mmes. Thos. C. Huxley, San Francisco, Emily Hobby, Palo Alto; Wm. B. Kirk, F. V. Jones, Geo. P. Hellwig, Howard Chadbourne, August May, Roland Bendel, Walter Robie, R. L. Pond, Josephine Brown, Frank Dusterbrey, C. E. Martenstein, E. A. Ellsworth, Loren Marriot, Wm. Mette, E. H. Hirsch.

UTES TODAY FOR FORMER PASTOR

A former pastor of the local Presbyterian Parish, who served here for many years, died last Tuesday at the home of friends in San Jose. He was Rev. James N. McElhinney, pastor of the Alvarado and Centerville Churches from 1920 to 1937.

Funeral services for Rev. McElhinney, who was beloved for his unselfishness and his self-sacrificing qualities, will be held today (Friday) at 1:30 at the Currey and Grippenstrow Mortuary, 40 North Third Street, San Jose, with Rev. Saunders of the First Presbyterian Church in San Jose officiating.

Graveside services will be held later, at 2:45, at the cemetery at the Presbyterian Church in Centerville, with Rev. Philip Exall officiating, so that those in this community who are unable to attend the services in San Jose will have a chance to pay their respects here.

Rev. McElhinney, who remained a bachelor for the 86 years of his life, is survived by a nephew, Thomas McElhinney of Compton, California.

SERVICES TODAY FOR FRANK MENDONCA

Funeral services are being held this morning at the Berge Mortuary Company in Niles for Frank Dutra Mendonca, 85, who passed away Tuesday, October 24. Mass will be said at Corpus Christi Church and interment will be at Holy Ghost Cemetery.

Mendonca, a resident of this community for 40 years, was a native of Fayal, the Azores, but had lived in this country for 60 years. He was a member of the Centerville U.P.E.C. lodge. He was the husband of Mary and the father of Frank Jr. and Mrs. Mary Nicholas of Niles. Frank Mattos of San Leandro and Marjorie Nicholas and Rudy Mendonca of Niles are three grandchildren who survive him.

He is a man of friendly dignity, and his reception by localities was warm. Judge Allan Norris, George Roeding and Arthur Biddle headed the supporters who greeted him.

Houser spoke briefly of his own background. He was educated at U.C.L.A., taught government for several years in California schools and then entered the practice of law. He owns a farm in Tulare County.

He gave no formal address but simply answered questions put to him by voters. One asked about the Central Valley project. Houser said that he believed that existing large farms should not be broken up as Secretary of the Interior Ickes proposed. However, Houser believes that lands not now watered and farmed should be limited in acreage as they come under irrigation.

Asked about foreign policy, the lieutenant governor gave a homely illustration of his opinion. He said that there should be a world organization of nations for peace after the war. But this should work like marriage; when a person marries he does not surrender his own personal rights. And the United States, he said, should not give up its own sovereignty.

To a question regarding incumbent Senator Downey's record, Houser cited Downey's high record of absenteeism on Senate roll-call votes. Houser was missing on 52 per cent of war-time roll-call votes. Houser assured his listeners that if he himself is elected he will be in the Senate chambers to vote on all important measures.

Downey, he said, has a record for isolationism on those same measures which drew the wrath of Roosevelt in his speech of last week before the Foreign Policy Association. Roosevelt castigated Senator Nye and Senator Johnson and the late Senator Borah for their isolationism. But, said Houser, he forgot to mention Downey, who likewise voted isolationism.

SEIDEL SAYS TEACHER SHORTAGE IS CRITICAL

County Superintendent of Schools Vaughn D. Seidel reports a startling decrease in the number of young men and women training to become teachers. He states that this is generally attributed to greater financial returns in other fields.

A summary of information regarding past and present numbers of teachers in training received from the seven state colleges and the University of California at Berkeley and Los Angeles reveals a condition causing grave concern for the future of education in California to those who believe that good schools are possible only with well trained teachers.

In 1934 there were 15,000 prospective teachers in training in these state educational institutions, Seidel found. In 1938 there were 12,000; in 1940 there were 4,700; and in 1943, 2,500. A drop in excess of 10,000 teachers in training between 1934 and 1940, before the present period of high wages due to the war, shows clearly that teachers' salaries did not offer a sufficient inducement to continue to attract students to teacher training institutions.

San Jose State College, largest California teacher training institution, reports that two counties could have used all of the June graduates. If this trend continues, many of our elementary schools will find it necessary to use untrained high school graduates as teachers, Seidel states.

TRUSTEES HOLD DINNER MEETING

"A" AWARD IS GIVEN TO HAYWARD PLANT

Workers of the California Conserving Company's Hayward plant came into their just rewards last Monday when a crowd of close to 3000 persons saw them receive the "A" Award for excellence in food production to aid the war effort.

Several notables were present, including E. H. Spoor, regional field relations representative of the office of distribution, War Food Administration. He acted as master of ceremonies.

Token presentation of "A" pins, which were given to each individual worker in all California Conserving Company plants, was made by Allen Peck. Fleet City orchestra concluded the program by playing the "Star Spangled Banner."

A lot to do with Apples!

NO ONE NEEDS a recipe to enjoy a good eating apple, whether the occasion be Halloween or just any day at all. But for apples that are better when cooked, here are appetizing suggestions.

GLAZED BAKED APPLES
(These are the kind you get in fine restaurants—but there's nothing complicated about preparing them): Wash 6 large baking apples, remove blossom ends, and core about 2 inches deep. Fill each cavity with 1 or 2 tbsps. sugar, dash of cinnamon and nutmeg. Place in baking dish, with small amount of water. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 45 minutes. Make syrup of 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water; boil 5 minutes. Remove cover for last 15 minutes of baking, and baste frequently with syrup. Serve warm or cold, with cream or chilled custard sauce.

And if you like apple sauce in full, crystal-clear pieces, then try this recipe for

TRANSPARENT APPLE SAUCE

Wash 6 medium-size cooking apples, pare, quarter, remove cores. Place apples in saucepan; add 1/2 cup water. Top with 1 1/2 cups sugar, (1/2 tsp. nutmeg and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon may be added). Do not stir. Cover; cook slowly without stirring until apples are tender and transparent (about 20 to 30 minutes). Cool with cover on.

To go with roast pork or ham, surprise your family with

CATSUP APPLES

Core, but do not peel cooking apples. Cut in half crosswise, and place in baking dish, cut side up. Top each half with 1/2 tsp. catsup and 1/2 tsp. butter or margarine. Add enough water to cover the bottom of the dish. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for about 30 minutes. Just before serving, turn the cut sides of the apples down, to absorb the juice.

Answer to a Sailor

In our Armed Forces column you no doubt have read excerpts from a letter written by a young seaman to his mother. He states how much his home-town paper — The Register — means to him and adds: "... tell the newspaper man that maybe I'll be able to do something for him some day when I get home."

This gave us that familiar lump-in-the-throat feeling. It made us feel very humble, too.

We'd like to say to him: "Listen, sailor, what we are doing—wrapping up a paper and getting it to you in the mail every week—is so little in comparison with what you are doing that it makes us feel almost ashamed to have you mention it. Right now you are at sea somewhere risking your life so that we at home can live in security and peace. And you say you want to do something for us when you get home!"

"That isn't the way it should be, sailor. We should be the ones who should be planning on doing something for you when you come home."

"And we will do something for you. With the aid of God and the proper authorities in Washington, we will see to it that you have a job, a decent place in which to raise a family, hospital care and all the things that go toward making a good life for a man. It's what you deserve. It's a debt of all of us people at home that MUST be paid to you."

"Yes, we are glad that you get so much pleasure out of your home-town paper. We try to make it as interesting for you and the other boys out there as we can. We know how much it means to you to know that the whole world hasn't cracked up. We know that you must feel a certain security in the knowledge that there is still the home town to come back to, that it hasn't changed much, that life goes on there much as before, and that some day you can return to it to stay. We are glad we can give you this assurance through the pages of our paper."

"But listen, sailor—don't ever again say that you hope to be able to do something for us when you get back. We just couldn't take it."

"The only answer to full employment is full production, and jobs can be provided only if industries are kept in full operation after the war."—Lt. Gov. Fred Houser

Vote "Yes" on No. 9

By EPH. L. MUSICK

Second only to the choice you as a voter are to make on November 7 between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas E. Dewey stands Proposition No. 9 on your ballot.

That proposition concerns the welfare of the children of California vitally. It is a proposed amendment to the state constitution, which, if favored by the voters, will increase the state appropriation from $60 to $80 per child attending the elementary schools in California.

Incidentally, of course, that proposed increase will advance salaries of teachers above present levels. Let it be understood at the beginning that I am not advocating an increase in pay for teachers or any other group or workers—white collared or dark-collared—as a war emergency.

I am thinking only of the welfare of our schools in the present and for the future. Ever since the spiral of inflation was set off in 1933, when the price of gold was jumped from around $20 to $35 an ounce, wages and salaries have been boosted in an effort presumably to buy our way out of a depression. It is true that emergency aid has been extended to the schools during the last two years, but the salaries of teachers have not kept pace with pay in industry and other lines of employment.

As a result, teachers have left classrooms to such an extent that retired teachers and emergency teachers from outside California have been pressed into service. But by far the greatest danger facing our schools today rests with the fact that the training schools for teachers are being shunned by young men and women.

That stoppage was apparent several years before the present war started. Today enrollments in those schools are down at least 50 per cent in some cases. When young people are offered $200 a month while learning a trade within a few months, they are not anxious to enter the field of education after four or five years of preparation when a minimum salary of $1500 is placed as a goal to climb from.

On the first day of last March a boy came into my office and asked for a permit to go to work. He was 16 years old on that day. Failing to persuade him to continue his studies, I gave him a clearance from compulsory attendance at the Decoto school. He told me that he had a job near Oakland that would pay him $50 a week plus Saturday overtime—payment greater than any teacher in the Decoto school was receiving.

Sooner or later, under such circumstances, a teacher's self respect will steer her away from a classroom into a more remunerative position. That is what the schools of California are facing today.

If our schools are to blaze the trails of progress, young blood must be poured into their veins yearly. If you believe in elementary training, vote to put the teachers on a footing equal at least to that of unskilled labor in industry.

Vote "YES" on Proposition No. 9.

PROPOSITIONS ARE DISCUSSED AT LIONS CLUB

At a meeting of the Lions Club last Tuesday evening, different members spoke in favor of Propositions No. 1 and 9 on the state ballot and Proposition No. 3 on the county ballot.

Jack Vieux was the proponent for Proposition 1, a bill to provide funds for home loans for veterans. Jack Rees spoke in support of Proposition 9, which is a bill to increase funds for public schools and teachers. And Bob Moore cited the recent killing of a sheriff in Oakland by a sailor as an example of what can and does happen to sheriffs—who have, at present, no compensation insurance, no protection for their families if they are killed. Proposition No. 3 on the county ballot would remedy this condition.

Before the meeting adjourned, it was decided to appropriate $50 of the Club's funds for the War Chest.

The next meeting, November 14, will be past-presidents and charter members night. Judge Allen Norris will have charge of the program.

CLOTHING STORE IN NILES GETS NEW STOCK DAILY

Manuel Frades, who opened up "The Niles Clothing Store" in Niles recently, announces that he is getting more merchandise every day, though the supply is limited, of course, due to marketing conditions.

Mr. Frades, who lives with his family in San Leandro until he can find a home in Niles, eventually hopes to have a complete line of clothing for men, women, boys and girls. He makes weekly trips to San Francisco to do his buying. As proof of the fact that he has high hopes of a successful business career in this community, he expects to sell his property in San Leandro and build a home here when the war is over.

Mrs. Frades is assisting him in the business. They have two children.

MISSION SAN JOSE

By LOIS JUSTUS

Mrs. Vera Witherly, wife of Thomas D. Witherly of Linda Vista Park, is confined to her home with second degree burns received on Saturday evening when she upset a kettle of boiling water on her lower limbs. She was rushed to the San Jose emergency hospital for treatment and now has some very bad blisters all over the leg.

Mrs. Fern Overacker received word last week that her sister, the former Faye Ammons, one of Uncle Sam's WAC's in service in Los Angeles, was married there recently and is now Mrs. R. E. Bar-skin. Her husband is a world war veteran of this war and has received a discharge following service in the Pacific.

Mary Santos received a baby express message from Mr. and Mrs. DeSaint, the former Gloria Silva, that they are the proud parents of a son born October 12 in Los Angeles, and is named Noel Kenneth. He weighed 7 pounds and 6 ounces at birth.

Miss Nadine Millard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Millard, was hostess at a birthday party given in her honor at the family home on the 17th of October. The little Miss, in her first year of school, was six years old.

Her little friends enjoyed an afternoon of games and contests with lovely refreshments served by her mother at the close of the day. A huge birthday cake was the center of attraction.

Those present to make the party a long to be remembered one were: Patsy and Ann Dutra, Becky Jean Overacker, Patsy McDaniels, Marlene and Nadine Fernandez, Mary Ann McIvor, Shirley Ann Cunha and her brother, Andy Millard.

Miss Olive Hyde, who has been in the Mission for a number of weeks, returned to her home in San Francisco after getting her summer home here in order for the winter.

IBSEN'S PLAY "DOLL HOUSE" IN SAN FRANCISCO

At the Geary Theatre in San Francisco James B. Cassidy is presenting his all-star cast of Ibsen's immortal stage drama, "A Dolls House," one of the most celebrated plays of all time. In the cast of "A Dolls House" are Frances Lederer, well known actor of the stage and screen; Philip Merivale; Jyle Talbot; Dale Melbourne, young Australian star; Jane Darwell, who won the Academy Award for her portrayal of Ma Joad in "Grapes of Wrath" and Keven McClure of radio and stage fame.

Ibsen's "A Dolls House" is one of the famous plays that are in the "must" of lovers of the stage, and has long served as a starring vehicle for celebrated actors and actresses. It is a gripping drama of real life and realism, and with such an outstanding cast of stage favorites as being offered in its presentation at the Geary, a play which no one can afford to miss. The play is scheduled for a limited run and is playing to packed houses. Mail orders will be filled promptly.

Planning for the Future

Because of careful planning and development work, the American railroads have done an outstanding job during the War.

The Western Pacific, like all other railroads, is planning for the future. Through the Association of American Railroads men have been drawn from all departments and branches of the industry to study the transportation of the future.

In laboratories, shops and offices, and out on the road the research work is being done—not only by railroad men but also by the hundreds of companies allied with the railroad industry.

Faster, better and safer travel by rail is our program for the future.

Voice communication between moving trains and dispatchers is one of the many ideas being developed.

WAR WORKERS BADLY NEEDED SAYS GAMMAN

An intensive campaign to recruit workers for vital war jobs in the Bay Area has been launched throughout Northern California by the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission, it was announced today by Walter Gamman, manager of the U.S.E.S. office.

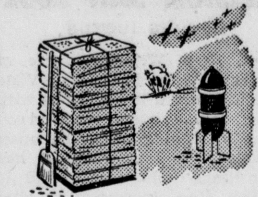

A leaflet listing essential war jobs has been prepared for widespread distribution. Inspectors for the State Department of Agriculture are distributing leaflets in all vehicles entering the state through plant quarantine stations, Gamman said.

In addition, representatives of the U.S.E.S. board trains at Salinas, Fresno, Sacramento and Gerber to distribute the circulars to passengers in the coaches.

Each U.S.E.S. office in northern California has assigned workers to distribute the leaflets in places where workers congregate, including rooming houses, hotels and bus stations.

The leaflets emphasize the need for workers in the oil industry, transportation, new construction and repair work in shipyards and Navy Yards and installations.

Save Waste Paper for War!

100 lbs. of waste paper will make 20 protective bands for 250 lb. bombs. Start saving now.

All job changes and referrals must be in accordance with WMC employment stabilization regulations, Gamman said.

"The war is far from won," Gamman said, "and it is essential that more and more supplies be sent into the Pacific to meet the demands of the military."

"The supply schedules can be maintained only if there is adequate manpower. Any breakdown of the schedules will upend the war and cost the lives of fighting men."

Women's State-Wide Committee Aids World War II Veterans' Home and Farm Measure

C.N.P.A. Inc. Service

MRS. CELIA MCKINNON of Concord, California, mother of fifteen children, four of whom are in the U. S. fighting forces, heads the state-wide Women's Committee for the World War II Veterans' Home and Farm measure, directing the Veterans Welfare Board to enable California service men and women to acquire their own homes and farms, with state loans. Proposition No. 1, the enabling act on the November 7 state election ballot, is unopposed on ballot arguments. It affords veterans of the present global conflict the same privileges accorded service folks of the first World War in acquiring homes. Mrs. McKinnon, past district commander of the American Legion Women's Auxiliary, has headed several U. S. War Bond drives, child welfare and War Activities committees.

NILES NAZARENES TO HAVE SPECIAL SPEAKER

The Niles Nazarene Church will have the Rev. J. W. Farr, California Secretary of the State Temperance League, as its special speaker at the morning preaching hour, Sunday, October 29. On November 5, at 7:30 p.m.,

Mothers, wives, relatives and friends of California service men and women in World War II comprise the state-wide Women's Committee of several thousand volunteer workers campaigning for the unanimous adoption of Proposition No. 1, $30,000,000 Veterans' Home and Farm measure on the November 7 general election ballot. The proposal directs the Veterans' Welfare Board to make loans to enable Californians in the present global conflict to acquire their own homes and farms on their return from active service. The plan is similar to that availed of by several thousand California veterans of the first World War, who obtained loans through the Veterans' Welfare Board, and purchased farms and homes without costing the State, Counties or taxpayers a single penny. In four state elections, 1922, 1926, 1930 and 1934, the California voters overwhelmingly authorized the issuance of $80,000,000 in bonds enabling twenty thousand World War I veterans to secure homes.

Scores of women's organizations and clubs, including many state-wide associations, have unanimously adopted resolutions urging the adoption of Proposition No. 1, the World War II Veterans' Home and Farm measure. Many women's groups have volunteered the services of special committees from their ranks to cooperate with State Chairman Mrs. Celia McKinnon and her workers in behalf of the proposal, it was reported at state headquarters of the Veterans' Home and Farm Committee, 1006 Merchants Exchange Building, San Francisco, phone GARfield 3052.

the public is invited to take part in a very beautiful and unique Candle Light Service in recognition of the men and women in Uncle Sam's Service.

A Revival, from November 5 to 19, will be of interest to all. Special Chalk Talks and Cartooning will be some of the interesting features of the series of services.

Mrs. America Meets the War

George Washington did more than to lead the Continental Armies and chop down orchards. He was a householder of no mean proportions, and as such his advice was not to be sneezed at.

Housewives today could take a hint from the first Mr. America's ideas on proper shopping.

"The morning is the proper time for marketing. Let it be the rule to go thither early, know your wants and provide accordingly." He added another thought which should surely win the approval of the clean plate brigade when he said . . . "See that that which is provided be not suffered to spoil or be wasted." A practical and foresighted man . . . The Father of our Country!

Has Mr. America been muttering darkly about the country's need for "A good five-cent cigar" as he puffed petulantly on his panella? Then you can be the bearer of good tidings of great joy! Cigar manufacturers have been meeting with OPA to talk over plans for increasing the supply of low-priced cigars. No more twenty-cent cigar ash on the orientals!

" . . . He stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum . . . is going to be true of Mrs. America's son Junior on this year's Christmas pie, for he is going to be in the same enviable position Jack Horner enjoyed when it comes to plums in his pie! The War Food Administration, which has the last word on control and distribution of foodstuffs, says that more dried fruit is being released for the civilian holiday trade. This means our Thanksgiving and Christmas cakes, puddings, and pies can be stuffed with juicy currants, prunes, peaches and apricots.

This year's crop of Halloween witches will have to fly against the harvest moon on something other than their traditional broomstick, for the War Production Board tells us that household supplies of brooms are becoming mighty, mighty scarce. Increased military and industrial demands for new brooms are expected to use up all the current crop of broom corn before the 1945 crop is ready. Looks like the old broom will have to sweep clean for a while yet.

Are toys for toddlers on your Christmas shopping list? Then here's good news on that front. When your small fry write those trusting letters to Santa Claus you need not fear their howls of rage Christmas morning, for the paper and cardboard toys that barely survived the first battle of the living room floor last year will be replaced with sturdier stuff. There will be wood and rubber toys made from reclaimed rubber—solid rubber balls, wagons with real rubber tires and steel wheels, games, rocking horses, blackboards, dolls and all their housekeeping paraphernalia, and although travel is out, it's going to be possible to buy extra miles of steel track for mechanical trains and travel right at home. Doll carriages with metal wheels and rubber tires can be under the Christmas tree, but tricycles, scooters and "mama" dolls are still war casualties.

Get your supply of fresh tomatoes for home canning while they are still available and cheap, Mrs. America. In a few weeks, OPA warns, tomatoes are going out of season and prices will be higher. A lug of tomatoes will put you ahead about 10 quarts and also save you several hundred blue points.

Wining and Dining

By ROBERT MAYOCK

G. I. COOKING

From all directions come reports of how badly G. I. Joe's food is handled by the cooks. This applies not only to the Army but to the Navy as well. Only last week we had a Navy Commander to dinner on Sunday who had left Saipan on Thursday. He told us that the Officers' Mess was as bad as the men's and that they hadn't found any way to correct the situation because of the kind of cooks they are given.

Mayock

All meats served are in a tough condition . . . and in the Officers' Mess we never have a steak for a month. Now I know and everybody knows that the quality of food for our fighting men is of the highest. The cooking equipment is the finest in the world, and with 800 men aboard a small cruiser, certainly there is plenty of help to do a good job.

WHAT KIND OF COOKS

To say that the cooks are plain terrible is to indict the people who trained these cooks; and that is exactly where the first blame should be placed, in my opinion. Second blame is on the officer who does not see to it that the cooks don't at least do the best their limited capacities allow. And it is only in the third and last place that I would look to the cooks themselves. They are mostly men who were never cooks before in their lives. Many of them, including the negro cooks, come from the deep South where I am told the standard fare is 'corn-pone, Pot-likker and heart-burn.'

The poor boys don't know anything about good cooking and good food because they are fresh out of "the depression." My contention is that they should be properly shown what to do with meats and with vegetables. It is not necessary to try and feed an army on steaks and potatoes. Excellent meals can be made out of any kind of meat. With a little handling and embellishing here and there a palatable meal can be made out of flank or brisket or even neck.

In fact, I'll give any G. I. cook in the service all the licks he wants. I'll take the necks and the forequarters and produce the ten best consecutive meals out of the same G. I. kitchen. That's my challenge to the Army and Navy and I'm ready and willing to make good on this declaration any week they wish to choose. The test will be the amount of left-overs on the plates of the men who are fed and by the weight of unnecessary garbage in the slop pails.

BEEF A LA MODE

To make it all fair, I'll give my rival the first bite by telling him how I'll prepare my first main dish. Take any amount of neck and dissect the muscles out lengthwise. Then skin off the muscle sheaths; that is the part that's tough. Cut into cubes and braise in beef fat with a little ham fat and cooking oil very gently for three hours; another with chopped onions and continue braising until the onions are lightly browned. Pour in enough boiling water to cover and let simmer another hour with diced carrots and dehydrated celery. At the last add sage, thyme, garlic and red wine or vinegar. Drain off the browned stock and thicken to a half glaze with flour. Serve on squares of toast which have been fried in hot fat or with croutons treated the same way.

Of course, this is not exactly an authentic Boeuf a la Mode, but it has the elements that make the famous old dish delectable. I merely modified it to stay within the limitations of a G. I. kitchen. And again, if I had my entire way, I would serve a glass of good red wine such as Zinfandel with such a meal. Red wine will certainly embellish such a dish. But you're in the Army, boys, and for some reason I don't understand, red wine is not G. I.

The results of the Hayes-Tilden presidential election of 1876 remained in doubt for four months.

Come On In—The Paint is Fine

"A LITTLE elbow grease and some paint are all you need," says Martin Davis (right) as he shows his buddy John Crowl how easy it is to finger paint.

Both sailors are picking up pointers on finger painting and similar arts while waiting for their discharges in the Readjustment Center at Lido Beach, L. I. The arts and crafts project is brought to them by volunteers and staff from the nearby Long Beach USO club.

Because USOs are one of the first places to which returning G. I. Joe's come, the six member agencies are doing everything they can to insure them a proper welcome.

The National YWCA gives special training to volunteers in its USO clubs so they can help veterans adjust from military to civilian life. "Be a good listener, but don't ask questions" is just one of the tips in "G.I.'s Are Coming Home," a booklet distributed to clubs to aid wives, mothers, sweethearts and sisters in meeting their own and other service men and women home from the wars.

The FARMERS CORNER

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

American farmers, who conquered the threat of serious wartime food shortages by a record or prodigious production unequalled in the world's history, have another tough nut to crack in the years just ahead—the problem of post-war surpluses!

Every reliable signpost indicates that 1944 will stand out as the peak year of farm income in World War II, just as 1919 was the peak year in the first World War period, and that both farm income and farm production will start to fall off during 1945, dropping much more rapidly in 1946 and '47.

Since this writer, in a recent column, warned that surplus Army stores may be more than adequate to feed the people of Europe until they can get on their feet and supply their own needs—and cautioned against any careless assumption that a post-war, world-feeding program can be looked to as the solution of the problem of American farm surpluses—numerous inquiries have been received, seeking more specific information on present government holdings.

The figures are far from reassuring. The War Food Administration, at present, owns about 600 million dollars worth of food. While a small part of this supply is allocated for lend-lease, none is for the armed forces—and the bulk of it is characterized by competent authorities as "unmanageable surplus."

Here, commodity-by-commodity are the figures on WFA holdings, entirely apart from any surplus stores the Army may have when the war in Europe ends:

Cured meat, 105,000,000 pounds; canned meat, 196,000,000 pounds; frozen meat, 38,000,000 pounds; canned fish, 104,000,000 pounds; lard, 509,000,000 pounds; canned vegetables, 118,000,000 pounds; dried fruit, 112,000,000 pounds; dried peas, 413,000,000 pounds; dry beans, 422,000,000 pounds; rice, 142,000,000 pounds; dried milk, 140,000,000 pounds; evaporated milk, 213,000,000 pounds; eggs, dry and frozen, 181,000,000 pounds; cheese, 54,000,000 pounds; and sugar, 214,000,000 pounds.

Attention also has been called in recent columns to the fact that there is a dangerous surplus of beef on the range throughout the country, despite the shortage of meat in the nation's butcher shops, occasioned by OPA rationing policies and a shortage of manpower in packing plants.

While the whole problem of post-war food surpluses is, of course, complicated by uncertainty as to when the European phase of the war will end, and what its impact will be on the Nation's economy, it is expected that Army buying will fall steadily—perhaps to half the present levels—when the Nazi end of the Axis collapses and part of our huge military establishment is demobilized.

The consensus of opinion in informed quarters seems to be that the Army, during 1945, will buy about three billion dollars LESS food than in 1944.

Now for a few comparisons to point up the drastic fluctuations which have taken place in American farm income during the cycle of years embracing World War I, the Depression Decade—and World War II.

In 1919, the most prosperous year in American farm history, prior to this war period, farmers had $14,600,000,000 in cash income from their marketings. After paying out $7,700,000,000 to cover operating expenses, they had left $6,900,000,000.

In 1932, at the depth of the depression, farm cash income from marketings dropped to $4,700,000,000. Operating expenses amounted to $3,500,000,000, leaving only $1,200,000,000.

In this year of 1944, farm income from marketings and from government payments, it is estimated, will amount to about $21,000,000,000. Expenses will total $9,400,000,000, according to estimates, leaving a balance of $11,600,000,000 for farmers and the tax collector.

Venturing into the realm of prophecy, farm economists estimate that farm income for 1945 will drop to $17,500,000,000. What it will be in 1946 and 1947, no one

PROPOSITION 3 WOULD BOOST STATE SALARIES

Proposition 3 on the November ballot places with the state legislature authority to determine and fix proper compensation of the state controller, secretary of state, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and lieutenant-governor.

Proponents of Proposition 3 claim that the importance of this amendment to the efficient administration of state government will be apparent when it is realized that for the past 36 years the salaries of these five important officials have been frozen in the state constitution at rates which were based on their duties and on salary standards as they existed in the year 1908.

They argue that the phenomenal growth of California, from a primarily agricultural state in 1908, with a population of approximately 1,700,000 persons, to its present stature as one of the leading industrial states of the nation, with a population of approximately 8,500,000 persons, has necessitated a corresponding expansion of its governmental functions, and a like increase in the duties of its state officials.

is willing to forecast, but it is quite likely that those will be two of the most critical years in the history of American agriculture, as both the farming industry and the government seek to cope with the problem of disposing of surpluses and effecting a balance between supply and demand.

The government could take some of the hazard out of the future now by telling farmers exactly how it intends to dispose of its surplus food stores. And it could also aid the situation, in this writer's opinion, by putting a quick end to most of the food rationing so that some of the present surplus commodities could be consumed before the war ends. In a period of threatened shortages, rationing could be justified, but where scarcity is supplanted by surpluses, there is no further excuse of limiting public buying. Not alone to aid the farmer, but to protect the Nation from going into an economic tailspin after the war, the time to tackle the problem of surpluses is NOW, before it becomes acute.

VOTE NO on 12

Some of these days G. I. Joe will be coming home. He'll want a job—and peace. We can help him by voting NO on No. 12, "Right of Employment," November 7. This proposition attacks trade unions and threatens G. I. Joe's right to work. It would invalidate agreements between management and labor. It would interfere with the war production. It would bring chaos, confusion, industrial strife. It would lower the American standard of living in the post-war era. Protect G. I. Joe's right to work.

As a colorful hard-hitting candidate for United States Senator, Fred Houser is winning strong Democratic and Republican support.

As a member of the State Legislature, Fred Houser supported defense measures and the war effort. He advocated progressive and liberal laws. Thinking Things Over...

By VIVIAN BATMAN

I went to the opera the other night. I almost didn't go, because I wasn't sure of the pronunciation of "Lily Pons." I could get the Lily all right, but not the Pons. And what is the use of going to an opera if you can't tell people you went, and how can you tell people you went if you can't pronounce the star's name?

The editor finally set me straight on the matter, however, so I decided to go. The way he said it, it rhymed with "bong," which didn't sound exactly right to me. I heard other people pronounce it "Pahns," "Pawns," "Pawns," and "Pun." I suppose the really correct French way to pronounce it is "Pohn," with the last part said as though you were snoring.

The man who sat in front of me at the opera must have had a hard day at the office. His head began to nod somewhere along in the middle of the second act. His wife gave him a none-too-gentle nudge and he woke up. I saw other husbands with nodding heads. I think it's a shame wives insist on exposing their husbands to "art" when they don't want to be exposed to it. I can just hear them at home saying, "But John, what will the neighbors think! They'll think you don't appreciate the finer things of life."

There's no doubt about it. Pons is a petite, enchanting songstress, but why don't they get her out of those stuffy clothes and those moth-eaten operas and let her use her voice in some scintillating operetta? Surely we have composers today who could write music that would give her as good a chance to show her mastery of her vocal chords as does "The Mad Scene" or "The Sextette." Not but what those are beautiful melodies, but you'd get tired of T-bone steak if you had it all the time.

Are people talking about you? You think not? Well, chances are you're wrong. Everybody gets talked about. That is one of the things I have come to discover since I have been living in a small town.

Gossip is an interesting phenomenon. You don't have to do anything to start the gossips to gossiping. You can just be sitting in your own home doing your knitting and they'll start talking. "Why, Mr. So-and-so never goes out! Just sticks at home all the time." If you DO go out, they call you a gad-about. If you work hard at your business or your job you are called "money-crazy." If you don't work hard, you're lazy.

Why, only this week, seven different people called me on the phone and wanted to know when we were going to move so that they could rent our house. We had not, and have not, the slightest intention of moving. We like it here.

Now, how did that rumor get started? You tell me.

In a British-made movie we saw the other night, an English girl played the part of an American girl. Her American accent wasn't bad. It set me to wondering just how difficult it is for a Britisher to speak American. All the Americans have to do to imitate a Britisher is to use broad "a's" and clipped sentences, with voices rising at the end of a sentence. I wonder if it's difficult for the Britisher to put the American drawl into their voices. One thing about them—their "okays" don't seem to come to them naturally, at least not in this movie I saw.

I have been thinking about Mr. Dewey. "Well, who hasn't?" you'll probably remark. But I have been thinking of the unkind comments concerning his stature. To get back to the British again, that's not exactly "cricket," is it? Perhaps he ought to reply to these unkind slurs by quoting Isaac Watt's poem, "True Greatness": "Were I so tall to reach the pole, Or grasp the ocean with my span, I must be measured by my soul; The mind's the standard of the Man."

MR. ROOSEVELT, PLEASE EXPLAIN:

WHY— the men charged with responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster have never been allowed to speak?

WHY— after spending 58 billion dollars, the New Deal still had 10 million unemployed in 1940? (AFL figures.)

WHY— from 1937 to 1940, the U. S. State Department authorized the shipment to Japan of 8 million tons of scrap iron and 220 million dollars worth of oil for war against China?

WHY— has there never been a report to the American people on the "agreements" made with Russia at Teheran?

WHY— have you never stated your attitude on the notorious Kelly Democratic machine in Chicago, the Hague Democratic machine in New Jersey, and the Prendergast Democratic machine in Kansas City (where Harry Truman was hatched)?

WHY— in January of 1940, did you refer to Thomas Dewey's insistence on a two-ocean Navy as "just plain dumb?"

WHY— with our men already fighting on German soil, is your cabinet still squabbling about how to control defeated Germany?

WHY— have you forced wartime strikes by allowing the War Labor Board to pile up 22,000 undecided disputes?

What Shall We Have For Dinner ?

This Week's Recipe Contributed by Mrs. George Goodale of Centerville

You're too busy to make a cake or a pie or a pudding, so you're going to open a jar of those luscious looking peaches or apricots you put up this summer. But you have a feeling the youngsters are going to rebel.

"Gee, Mom, why don't we ever have a dessert?" they'll ask, never quite recognizing that canned fruits come in the dessert category.

So—why not have your fruit and with it serve delicious cookies which take no longer to mix up than it would to make a telephone call (not half as long, if you're like most women!).

Mrs. G. H. Goodale, who contributed this recipe for the cookies, says there is no name for them. But since you might say they contribute indirectly to the war effort by not using any foodstuffs of which there is a shortage, why not call them "Victory" cookies?

Sift into a bowl:
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup of flour
1/2 teaspoon soda.

Beat two eggs, add to above mixture with one cup chopped walnuts.

Pour into greased square cake pan, 8x8, and bake for 40 minutes in a 250-degree oven. Cool in pan, and cut in squares.

There are a few points to remember in making these cookies. Don't worry if the batter is stiff and dry; that is the way it is supposed to be. And do not bake in a hotter oven or the middle will be undone and the outside too crisp. The texture of the cake is very much like that of brownies.

Mrs. Goodale is the wife of George Goodale, secretary of Alameda County Conservation Association. The Goodales, parents of a two year old boy, are living in the Paul Dougherty home in Centerville, having moved here from Oakland three years ago.

"George takes his lunch," said Mrs. Goodale, "and these cookies are the grandest thing to put in his lunch box. They are nice to serve with tea, too, if someone drops in for the afternoon," she added.

No, she hasn't given them to her small son, on account of the nuts. He has that treat to look forward to.

Mrs. Goodale, who is doing her part in the war by donating blood and making surgical dressings, says that she shies away from fancy recipes and fancy meals. When she has friends in to dinner she never has more than two couples at a time. "It is the simple recipes and the simple way of entertaining that I like best," she stated. "That is why these cookies are perhaps my favorite recipe—they are so easy to make."

Speaking of easy recipes, have you ever tried potato-burgers? No? Well, you're missing something. To one pound of hamburger, add one medium-sized raw, grated potato. Add salt and pepper (a little grated onion may be added, too) and form into patties, not too thick. Fry in hot fat. They're yummy.

SWAP AND SHARE...

We want to try out an idea in wartime service. We hope it will be helpful to many of our customers.

The plan is this. We have set up, in our local offices, an appliance clearing house service so that our customers can list any of their appliances which they are not using and do not need.

We also invite customers who desperately need certain appliances to list their requirements with us.

In this way, we hope to perform a worthy service by putting those who are willing to sell appliances in touch with those who need appliances and are anxious to buy. After this, buyer and seller deal among themselves. The company serves as a free listing agency—nothing more.

Surely in many a home there is a good toaster, range, radio or refrigerator or other appliance tucked away in closet or garage. Somebody needs it and can use it. It sounds right neighborly, doesn't it? Will you help?
